Gen. W. B. Snyman, the former Boer general, who, according to represent-ations made to the department by Ambassador Spring-Rice, has been ordered from his 1,000-nere ranch, La Reina, forty-five miles south of Chihunbuc, and the estate confiscated The Navy Department this morning received from Rear Admiral Fletcher a wireless dispatch confirming the reported attack by the rebels near Tampice. The constitutionalists are now massing about Tampice to the num-ber of 4,000. The federal garrison numbers 1,500. The British cruiser Hermione and the Corman cruiser Dresden have left Vera Crux for Tampico, and the French cruiser Conde is now at Vera Cruz preparing to go to Tampico. The Connecticut, with the commander of the Fourth division on board, and the Minnesota have reach-of Tampico, and the nospital ship So-lace has started for that port. The President was considerably exercised today by the circulation of re-ports that Germany had notified this Government that unless complete pro-tection is accorded German subjects in Mexico, it will act indeepndently in fur-nishing such protection. The President told his caliers that such a report was malicious and absolutely untrue. The attitude of the Kaiser's government has been one of forbearance, and it has recognized the right of the United States to deal with the Mexican situa-tion as it considers best. The President made it very plain to-day that he does not expect passage of dexico, it will act indeepndently in fur

LAREDO, Tex., March 9-For a storm center of international affairs Laredo is exceptionally grim and quiet today. The attitude of Governor Colquitt in standing pat behind his rangers and putting the situation entirely up to the Washington authorities is reflected in the demeanor of every citizen. The rangers went into Mexico, took the body of Vergara from its grave at Hidalgo Cemetery and brought it back here. That is all there is to it, except for the fact that the I exas authorities announce they intend to do the same thing whenever occasion arises.

Everything about the State end of the station is open and aboveboard-naked to the public gaze. The rangers merely feel they did their duty and don't see any reason for ticking up a fuss about it. They have done it before. And they say they'll do it again.

Facts Are Few. The facts are so few and so simply told that there is really nothing to the story except just this: Acting under orders of Governor Colquitt, Captain Saunders and a small squad of rangers entered Mexico from Laredo to secure the body of Clemente Vergara, the rancher, who was lured by the Federal soldiers to an island belonging to the United States in the Rio Grande and was beaten to death. The federal general in charge had declined to permit the body to be sent to the United States. Governor Coi-quitt demanded the body, that an ex-amination might be made to determine the cause of death. He asked the State Department to permit him to send for it. Becoming dissatisfied at the atti-tude of both the Washington and the Mexican authorities he then ordered Saunders to go and get it. Saunders simply obeyed orders. His squad rode to Hidalgo, through bodies of Mexican troops, without molestation. They proceeded to the cemetery where Vergara was buried exhumed. where Vergara was buried, exhumed the remains, prepared them for trans-portation, and returned with them to the United States, crossing the Rio Grande a few miles northwest of La-American Consul Garrett Nuevo Laredo, deputy sheriffs of the county in which Vergara was killed, and other officials were waiting for Saunders and his men when they

Identified By Son.

The body was not badly decomposed, despite the fact that three weeks have tee which will formulate the campaign elapsed since it was buried. Identification was easily and undubitably established. The son of the dead man not only recognized the features of his father, but proved beyond a doubt his identification was correct by taking a piece of cloth from the trousers worn by the dead man and matching it with the coat which Vergara wore the day he left for the scene of his death. The march of the rangers into Mexico was made as quietly as possible. They made the overland mrach of five miles to Hidalgo at night, and, riding around the town, went directly to the cemetery. There was no difficulty in locating the There was no difficulty in locating the grave. Nor was there any time lost in disinterring the remains. When the lody was raised it was wrapped in a cloth that had been brought for the purpose and placed on a stretcher. This was carried by six of Vergara's friends. At no time was the party stopped or questioned, although the solemn procession moved through large crowds of people, and several times through detachments of troops. There it through detachments of troops. There was no violence or any threats.

The body is now at the old Vergara home, northwest of Laredo. It is understood that the thorough examination which has been ordered by the Texas authorities will be made here, and that here also will the United States conduct any investigation it might see fit to make.

the incident is closed, except only the matter of running down the murderers of the man. What will be done in this respect depends upon what action the Washington authorities are disposed to take. The State officials are perfectly willing to give Washington a chance, it is explained, but they demand action, and if the State Department does not and if the State Department does not provide it, the matter probably will again be placed in the hands of the rangers, and a squad will be sent into Mexico to arrest the men found to be responsible for the murder.

Carranza Puts Gag on All His Subordinates

EL PASO, Tex., March 2.-Gen. Venustiano Carranza today issued specific instructions by wire to all officers of the constitutional government, whether civil or military, to be circumspect in making statements on government matters. It is reported that, owing to the delicacy of the international situation growing out of the Eauch and Benton cases, and the recovery of the body of Clemente Vergara, at Hidalso, he feared expressions by subordinates might complicate matters.

Assistant Superintendent Kramer Points Out How Children Are Thus Handicapped.

(Continued from First Page.) fits of group teaching under one phrase, "class value." "To illustrate what we mean by that phrase, is a simple problem in mathematics," Mr. Kramer contin-mathematics," Mr. Kraner conditued.

"Give a teacher forty-eight pupils. She hax, in Washington, 1,500 minutes for teaching each week. That means she can give to one child six minutes of individual attention per day.

"But that is not all the child gets in the group plan. The test of a teacher's worth is not in her relation during that six minutes to that one child. But it is in her ability to make what she is telling or doing with that child of value to the other forty-seven children under her. Thus every child is entitled to his own six minutes, plus the six minutes given minutes, plus the six minutes given Destroys "Class Value." Anything that distracts attention of either teacher of pupil, Mr. Kramer aserted, destroys this "class value. Teachers, in his opinion, should be in "tune and tone," and should keep in training as does a racehorse and a prize fighter. "These are no mere theories. Upon their working out depend the ciency of any school class. ciency of any school class. Now when you have a poorly lighted room, or a poorly ventilated building, or uncomfortable seats, you district the pupils' attention. You are decreasing effciency by just that much distraction.

When you have a teacher running about a building, jumping from classes to answer the telephone, you pupils distract her attention, plus about a building, jumping from classes to answer the telephone, you pupils, distract her attention, plus that of her pupils.

"That is why, if classes must be large, I believe better results would come from a teacher working with sixty pupils in a room equipped for sixty children, than a teacher working with forty-five pupils in a room only intended for forty."

That is where the dligcult problem of adjusting the schools to Washington's shifting population arises, according to Mr. Kramer.

"To illustrate again." he said, "take eight or ten pupils from a class of htry. Then you leave twenty, too few pupils for one teacher, and perhaps the phers must be divided, in groups of twog or threes, among teachers who siready are teaching a full quota of papils. Such a condition arises here frequently because of the city's constant shift-

Mr. Kramer's ideas on overcrowing were sustained by E. L. Thurston, the present superintendent of schools. Overcrowding likewise was deplored by Dr. W. M. Davidson, Dr. W. E. Chancellor, and A. T. Stuart, former superintendents.

The yearly reports of Mr. Stuart, whose acquaintance with the school system extends over a greater period than any other present official, have contained pleas for smaller classes. In his last report as superintendent in 1911, he said:

"A third local condition which adds to the cost of the schools in Washington is the result of the for the last twenty-five years to steadily diminish the number of pupils assigned to each teacher. The whole tendency of the best things in education is away from the traditional practice of instruct-ing children in masses and toward a nearer approach to the teach-ing of individuals."

Magnifying Misery Into Joy

Dyspeptics, Stomach Sufferers and Appetiteless People May Quickly Find Relief in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

When a stomach sufferer gets relief he is one of the happiest of human beings and he looks back at his old self with a distinct feeling of horror. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets readjust the out-of-proportion and digestive machinery and bring joy of life and love for food to the man or woman who will use them after each meal for a short time.

The action of Stuart's Dyspepsia. Tablets is a purely natural one. When taken they enter the stemach just like foed. They mix with the juices of the mouth. Then they enter into and correctly build up or dilute the juices of the stemach, go into the intestines and there when the nourishment from the taken into the averter so fol-and there when the nourishment from food is taken into the system so follows the ingredients of these wonderful tablets.

They correct the faults of the blood and thus at the next meal the body is better able to produce a stronger and more normal digestive juice. A short use of these tablets will re-establish your digestion, stop gas-tritis, hearthurn, indigestion, foul breath, catarrh of the stomach and do away with dangerous stomach ulcers and many other unbearable condi-tions.

Go to your druggist today and be-gin the Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet habit. It is the habit of health and appetite. Learn how to yearn for food, not how to spurn it. 02 a. m. Obtain a box from any druggist— proce 50 cents. Sold wherever you can 6:02 find a drug store.—Advt.
